

Joe Worgan - NSW

Hey I'm Joe,

I'm 28 and based in Far West NSW, in Broken Hill where I have been living for 6 years.

I'm a registered nurse by trade and enjoy working and helping people day in, day out.

I have a super friendly golden retriever "Asha" who keeps me company on my days off and enjoy getting out and about on those days, I have a great extended family of expats who call Broken Hill home and together we conquer weekly trivia as well as enjoy the occasional weekend away.

I enjoy sport, getting out and about on days off, socialising with friends. I enjoy exploring this great country of ours and am keen to continue that into the future. I like gardening and cooking also.

As an RN (Registered Nurse), I enjoy working with people and find that an easy introduction in getting to know one another is key to a healthy friendship.

I am keen to be involved in the mentor program, to give back and provide assistance to younger ones, and to be part of the support network. Over the last few years, I have wanted to become more involved in the SSPA but work and study commitments have limited this unfortunately. Now is good timing!
